A LITTLE

..SHOE TALK..

We are just about to enter the bad, wet weather of winter, and a little short piece of shoe advice, free gratis for nothing won't cost anybody anything, and may possibly do some one a little good.

Now and then in the dry summer months a cheap shoe may, by careful use be made to give fairly good service, but the test of our Kentucky winter weather is too severe for anything except the very best of solid leather shoes to stand, if there is a weak spot any where in a shoe, wet weather will certainly eat it out. If the counters are paper, or the insoles are paper, or the heels are paper, one day in a rain will tell the tale, whereas the shoe might have, by care, worn a couple months in dry weather.

If a shoe has spongy soles or flankey uppers, one day's wet weather will tell the tale, and your feet will be wet before you have been out an hour.

Now our advice, in view of the above facts and in the light of twenty years experience is, "don't buy cheap shoes at all, but if you will have them, buy them in the summer time, but never in the winter."

Call for the best and insist upon getting it, wherever you are trading, and our word for it, you'll spend less money for shoes than you have been spending.

Of course to get the best shoes, any little girl or boy in the public schools will tell you, you'll have to get Anderson's.

Saturday, Nov. 24, 1900, holds the high water record in Hopkinsville and probably will do so for a hundred years to come. Certain it is that no person now living can remember having seen Little River on such a raging rampage and no newspaper or other records exist to dispute the claim that all high water records have been broken by many inches.

It Rained, It Rained and it Rained.

Friday was a damp, bad day with frequent showers and was followed by a terrific rainstorm that lasted practically all night. In 24 hours, seven inches of rain fell according to the government record kept by Mr. W. F. Randle. The result was that Little River was out of its banks and rising rapidly by 8 o'clock Saturday morning. People strolled down to the L. C. railroad and watched the muddy current and watched in hand timed the rising as inch by inch the waters crept up closer and closer to the tracks.

By ten o'clock the river touched the iron rails, supposed to be above the high Water mark and the people turned away to see that the large Ninth street sewer was overflowing and filling the depression in the streets at the crossing of Ninth and water. Soon the water began to creep up Ninth towards Main and by 12 o'clock it touched Frankel's corner. Then came another pouring rain and the rise was more rapid still. Foot by foot it crept across Main street and by one o'clock the last pavement was covered and all passing stopped at Ninth and Main. But the worst had not come. Still it rose and one by one the stores on Main street were flooded. Mrs. Ada Layne was the first to suffer, then J. M. Frankel, then A. P. Harness and last Charlie Dattilo. The water first came in from under the floors, then it at the doors and did not stop rising until it stood nearly a foot deep in those on the corner. Mr. Frankel remained in his saloon with a pair of rubber boots on and at high tide at 5 o'clock the water measured in the front room 9 1/4 inches. It was fully as deep in Mrs. Layne's Millinery store on the opposite corner. In Harness' drug store it was 7 inches in front and a foot or more in the rear room, which was lower. Charlie Dattilo was flooded to a depth of six inches. At four o'clock the water on Main street was up to the hubs of vehicles. It covered the pavements on both sides from Arm-

The row of Mercer cabins between the Park and the river were in water half way to the eaves and were abandoned early in the day.

The Union Tabernacle stood 3 feet in water, the water inside coming four inches above the pulpit platform. The plank walks in the yard were floated away, but one of them was caught and tied to the bridge approach and saved.

Chrysanthemums

A Thanksgiving Story.

By Manda L. Crocker.

PEOPLE said they were "a pair of old bairns" to give such a mile of ribbon that they had to make do with.

"As if I were going to make her better with her nose in the air, or that she's worth more than looking either," added Merry Jaxon, who was a most beautiful beauty from her birth.

Nevertheless the Jaxons, so known, did not care that the horrid long name in spite of the comment and adverse opinion of a dozen exceedingly interested neighbors.

Whether it was because there was a sun of the beautiful blossoms in a sun of the sun, or because the Jaxons were the sun of Thanksgiving day, they having been hustled in from the uncongenial November air outside a few hours before her coming, or not, was not known.

No matter Chrysanthemus was now the belle of Rosrock, notwithstanding her horrid long name.

Eighteen hours Thanksgiving sun had run the glowing day, sun, setting in a halo of memories sweet for Kimball's daughter, and in a special way with reference to the parental plan under way.

To-day the pleasant, deep-dining-room was banked with snow-white and creamy bloom on three sides, a beautiful wainscoting, truly.

Mrs. Kimball gave the same reason to Chrysanthemus for the dolor-bloom that she gave to her to the last just 10 years.

"The sun's nights," she said, "and chrysanthemums were never made for each other." But her room and heart were always congenial to the sun.

And Mr. Kimball had in his proud sentence when he carried in the blooming hawk nearly two decades ago.

To-day the stately daughter smiled the same proud, glad smile while bending over the rich beauty about her. "Our dining-room is so magnificently set, and the decorations for to-morrow are so fine, the eyes taking in the wealth of bloom at an appreciative sweep.

She was her mother's daughter, the bloom were her soul's delight. But Chrysanthemus had a leaf in her heart chapter which, in some way, had been left out or turned over a blank in the bosom of her fond and happy heart.

She had a pencil for looking around, and her father had a most beautiful compliment when he said that "his daughter was just like all other flowers, as ready to bloom for the poor as for the rich."

Nothing was ever truer than this, and as Chrysanthemus frank in the quiet room of the rich beauty about her. "Our dining-room is so magnificently set, and the decorations for to-morrow are so fine, the eyes taking in the wealth of bloom at an appreciative sweep.

"Yes," said Mrs. Kimball, intent on training her to be a stately physician whose soul was taken up with pills and potions, and the aches and pains of his patients; while she, Chrysanthemus, had her lovely home and loving parents, and old, old plenty of power to come to the aid of the sick and the helpless. What a blessed, happy, joyful life for this happy, Thanksgiving morning.

"I will be back in time to help with the dinner," said Chrysanthemus, her face a-bean with the love of the sun, "and the doctor will be a basket of dustries on the one hand, and a basket of Chrysanthemums on the other, destined for Jane's uncomfortable sickness."

"Oh, that doesn't matter," her mother hastened to say; "Jane has everything well in hand, and I shall be at the helm. Don't cut your visit short, dear; make it pleasant for the poor thing, as only you can. I will pray for your faculty for making people happy!"

Mrs. Kimball sighed, as if her daughter's faculty for brightening the lives of people were not quite enough. But she was thinking of something else, more skin to the "butterfly" idea.

Five young ladies in different parts of the state had received invitations to "expatriate" Chrysanthemus at Thanksgiving time. In two hours the ten o'clock train would be in and two roses, a Lily, a Pansy, and an Althea were expected.

It is Chrysanthemus' birthday, you all remember the course, and don't for me," ran the invitation, and each flower graduate determined, let come what would, to be there.

"It is the pleasure of the Rose to invite you to a special Thanksgiving dinner to be held on the 22nd of February."

WHOLESALE SLAUGHTER

Of Swine by Thieves, Near Ringgold, Tenn.Hog thieves are at work in the Ringgold neighborhood, not far from Kennedy. Last Tuesday night two of them entered the smokehouse of C. A. Shaw, of that place, and stole all his bacon, besides killing a couple of fattening hogs in his pen and carrying the meat away with them.
Thursday night they returned and killed a couple of hogs belonging to Mrs. Green. Saturday night they entered the mill yards and killed a fine porker belonging to
W. P. Hambaugh.

READY FOR OPERATIONS.

Lucket's Tobacco Factory at Gracey Already Receiving
Weed.Mr. T. D. Luckett's tobacco factory at Gracey is now ready for business and the prospects are that a very large amount of the weed will be handled this season by this house. Mr. Luckett has already begun the purchase of tobacco and the first delivery at his new house was made November 23. He is now operating five stemmeries in various sections of the dark to bacco district and is a wide awake tobacco man with many years of experience in the business. Mr.
Luckett or some of his men, will make a canvas of the surrounding country, having already seen the crops of many farmers and made a number of purchases which will be delivered as soon as possible. The Gracey factory is a great business enterprise, affording the farmers of that section a near-by market for their weed, and it is safe to predict that the new house will do a satisfactory business. A large number of hands have already been employed and more will be secured as their services are needed. Mr.
Luckett proposes to give the top prices of the market at all times and planters would do well to see him before selling their crops.

LOWER COURT AFFIRMED.

Rube Ross Must Serve Life Sentence in Pen.The Court of Appeals has affirmed the judgment of the Livington circuit court in the case of Rube Ross against the Commonwealth. Ross, aged twenty years, killed Walter Hoods, a boy of seventeen.
He was given a life sentence in the penitentiary. This is the second time that the case has been before the court here.

A Great Medicine.

"I have used Chamberlain's Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and find it to be a great medicine," says Mr.
E. S. Phipps, of Poteau, Ark. "It cured me of bloody flux. I cannot speak too highly of it." This remedy always wins the good opinion, if not praise of those who use it. The quick cures which it effects even in the most severe cases make it a favorite everywhere. For sale by all

MR. MERRITT DEAD.

The Well Known Grocer a Victim of Typhoid Pneumonia.

Mr. Dan H. Merritt, one of Hopkinsville's best known business men, died at his home on South Main Street Friday morning. He had been down with typhoid pneumonia for several weeks.

Mr. Merritt was 50 years old. He was born at Franklin, Tenn., but had spent the greater portion of his life in this city and county. At the time of his death he was a member of the grocery firm of E. B. Clark & Co., having acquired an interest in the business a year or two ago.

He was married several years ago to Miss Lida Greenwood and his widow and two children survive him.

The funeral services were held from the Christian church, of which deceased was a member, Sunday morning. Eld. H. D. Smith, the pastor, preached the sermon. The Odd Fellows and Woodmen of the World lodges took part in the funeral services and a large procession of sorrowing friends followed the body to its last resting place in Hopewell Cemetery.

Mr. Merritt was an upright and honest man, a good and useful citizen and a loving husband and father. The sympathies of many friends go out to his bereaved family.

FEMALE PHYSICIAN

Resigns Position at Asylum and Returns Home.

Dr. Laura Keisker, Third Assistant Physician at the Western Kentucky Asylum, has resigned her position at the institution and returned to her former home in Louisville yesterday. She was appointed by Gov. Beckham about four months ago.

Dr. Keisker is a most excellent lady, highly cultured, and has made many friends in this city, who regret to see her leave.

Her successor has not yet been appointed.

DR. WHARTON VINDICATED.

All the Indictments Against Him Are Dismissed.

All the indictments against Dr. H. M. Wharton, the well-known evangelist, have been dismissed in the New Jersey courts.

It will be recalled that while in Louisville last week, Dr. Wharton received a telegram to the effect that the indictment charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses had been quashed, and now the news comes that the remaining indictments charging him with obtaining money on the property have been dismissed, which completely vindicates Dr. Wharton. He is now in Webb City, Mo., conducting services.

SLOWLY RECOVERING

From a Long Siege of Typhoid Fever.

The many friends of Mrs. C. A. Lindsay, of Cobb, Ky., formerly of this city, will be glad to know that she is slowly recovering from a long spell of typhoid fever. She has been very ill for seven weeks but is now able to sit up a short while each day.

Died Near Crofton.

Crofton, Ky., Nov. 26.—Mrs. Thos. Lanier, living five miles east of Crofton, died Friday night, aged about 65 or 70 years. She leaves a husband and several grown children. The burial occurred Sunday.

RECORDS BROKEN.

covered by 2 inches of water on the lower floor.

The beer houses between the freight depot and the river built on high piles were reached and the floors covered a foot or more deep. Boxcars on the terminal tracks were covered above the wheels.

Perkins & Williamson's office was four feet under water. Their iron safe was entirely submerged. In Bente's factory across Eighth street water was 20 inches deep. The freight depot was water proof, but the tide rose to within a foot of the high floor.

Tha Tide Begins to Ebb.

Then came the turn in the tide. At 5 o'clock the waters stood stationary, then a little later began to recede slowly at first then by very rapid stages.

By 10 o'clock at night Main street was free from water, but covered with a coating of slippery slime. But the worst was over and everybody felt easy and satisfied to know that the city would not be left in darkness to battle with the angry waves.

Sunday morning found the river inside its banks, swollen still but no longer a menace to life and property.

The I. C. trains had been called off early Saturday, but the regular morning train came in Sunday at 10 o'clock and the usual schedule was resumed. A wrecking crew came in and began cleaning up. The lumber floated from the new depot building was gathered about the streets. The depot itself was dried up and cleaned. The platform was to be badly damaged. It had been raised up by the water, undermined and warped out of shape in settling back.

A large pile of lumber weighed down by the river bank, near the depot, threatened the storm and was not carried away, though almost covered at one time. It belonged to Forbes & Bro.

The Record Broken.

Mr. J. A. Twyman, the street superintendent, was one of the last to admit that the flood was a record breaker. He maintained up to noon that the river was higher in 1867, but by the middle of the afternoon he admitted that he never saw the river so high.

As a matter of fact the water was nearly two feet higher than ever before. The railroad tracks were supposed to be above previous high water marks and they were covered by nearly two feet at the highest point and completely submerged.

Quality

Never experiment with so important an article as the human food

It is the high quality of Royal Baking Powder that has established its great and world-wide reputation.

Every housewife knows she can rely upon it; that it makes the bread and biscuit more delicious and wholesome—always the finest that can be baked.

It is economy and every way better to use the Royal, whose work is always certain, never experimental.

There are many imitation baking powders, made from alum. They may cost less per pound, but their use is at the cost of health.

merged to the bend of the river at Thirteenth street. The water stood on a level with the second step of the Phoenix hotel. It reached that point once before, but that was when the step was two feet lower, before the streets, pavements and alleys were raised several years ago.

Bridge Washed Away.

The new bridge on the Greenville road was badly washed out and will require expensive repairs.

A Narrow Escape.

A four-mule team belonging to Mr. W. A. Glass was swept out of the road and over a wire fence into Mr. C. G. Duke's field. Four negro men were in the wagon and mules and mules had a narrow escape, but all escaped without a scratch. The mishap occurred at the bridge on the Cox's Mill road.

Huffman's Mill Bridge Gone.

The new iron bridge over Little River, below Huffman's mill, was washed away. It had not yet been found. It was built only a few years ago at a cost of several hundred dollars.

Damage To Crops.

All along the rivers in all parts of the country, the damage has been to corn and other crops still in the fields. J. R. Reaves has a part of his corn crop flooded near Edwards' Mill and J. E. Moseley lost about 20 bushels of sorghum cane. In other neighborhoods similar losses were sustained and everywhere fencing was swept away as never before.

Pumping Out Cellars.

The city engine began yesterday pumping out flooded cellars. It will be kept up until all are emptied.

Plenty of Water at Gracey.

At Gracey the water also broke the record. J. P. Meacham's house opposite the I. C. depot was left 3 inches above the water. It was a close shave but he managed to keep dry, but moved his family out.

Big Reduction in Taxes to Be Made Next Year.

Washington, Nov. 22.—The Republican members of the Ways and Means committee made such progress with the bill to amend the war revenue law that it is expected that the first draft will be completed by to-morrow night. The committee decided today to make the bill for the reduction of thirty million dollars a year. This is the amount suggested by Secretary Gage yesterday, and it is understood meets the views of the president. In fact, the members of the ways and means committee who saw the president last evening say that before Secretary Gage appeared before the committee the whole matter had been carefully considered by the president and the secretary.

Briefs of interested parties are being received and considered, but the committee has given no decision and will not do so. Gen. Grosvenor was not at the meeting today, having gone to Ohio for a few days.

BEST SECTION

Captured by Small Town on St. Louis Division.

The L. and N. inspection train which passed through this city one day last week bearing the officials of the road has returned to Louisville, after a two weeks' trip which covered nearly every mile of track of the great system. A number of prize awards were made. The prize for the best division was awarded to the Montgomery division, the figure being 8.33. The best section was captured by Adelville, Ill., a small town on the St. Louis division. The average was 9.34. While all the averages have not been figured up yet, it is known that they will be much larger than last year.

ALF TAYLOR TONIGHT.

Will Deliver Famous Lecture, "Poetry and Pearls."

The regular Semi-Annual election of officers of the Knights of Pythias lodges resulted as follows:

G. E. Dalton, C. C.; Geo. F. Campbell, V. C.; Claude B. Smith, Prelate; W. D. Ennis, M. of W.; Green H. Champain, M. of E.; W. C. Wright, M. of F.; George W. Walker, M. at A.; Lucien H. Davis, Geo. W. Phelps and W. D. Ennis were chosen trustees.

Hon. Alf Taylor will deliver his famous lecture, "Poetry and Pearls," at Holland's Opera House this evening. That he will have a crowded house goes without the saying. Below will be found a few extracts from editorial comment on the lecture by some of the leading journals of the day:

Chattanooga News—"Mr. Taylor came as near, perhaps, to describing the beauties of woman and love as any man ever will."

Richmond (Va.) Dispatch—"The performance was one of the finest ever heard from the rostrum."

Chattanooga Times—"Hon. Alf Taylor's tribute to woman and her tears was a touching and tender elegy, though it evoked many a laugh at the expense of weak men."

Carrollton (Ga.) Free Press—"All who attended were delighted with the poetry and pearls that fell from the eloquent lips of the distinguished orator."

Desoto (La.) News—"The lecture of Hon. Alf Taylor was a brilliant success. In sentiment, pathos, and in bright flights of fancy he is the equal of his famous brother, Gov. Bob Taylor.

Col. A. S. Colyar, Nashville, Tenn.—"To have heard 'Poetry and Pearls' is the pleasure of my life."

Judge Sykes, Aberdeen, Miss.—Hon. Alf Taylor's lecture on 'Poetry and Pearls' is magnificent; his philosophy is correct; his diction is without a parallel."

"Pull up!" That's the counsel very often given by a well meaning person to a man who is slipping down the road of alcoholism. And when the answer comes "I can't stop," the man is perhaps expressing for the cowardice of that phrase, "I can't."

Intemperance is only a form of disease, and there may come a time in the progress of any disease when it can't be stopped. That is the time when the "gallows consumption" begins. It's like a horse running away from its master.

Strength will stop the wildest horse. Strength is the great necessity in stopping of disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has cured thousands who had other cough, bronchitis, lung, lung, spitting of blood, emphysema, and similar ailments which if neglected or unskillfully treated lead to consumption. It cures by strengthening the body and giving them power to throw off disease.

"I had been troubled with bronchitis and cough and at times great difficulty in breathing," writes J. H. Howland, of New York. "For a portion of the time my appetite was poor and part of the time I was not able to sleep. I consulted with our best country physicians for several years but nothing would cure me. Last spring I had had much faith in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took a bottle of it and a spoonful of his medicine for several days and I was soon well again. Last spring I took a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and I continued taking it until I had taken seven bottles. I am now in full health again as hard a day's work as any man. I advise all of my friends who are troubled to seek Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

EXPOSITION BEAUTY.

PUTTING THE RAINBOW COLORS ON ONE OF BIG BUILDINGS.

Early Hints of What the Visitor May See of Molded Plastic Ornamentation and Color Decoration at Pan-American Exposition.

Let us now pose a question somewhat more into detail regarding the plastic and color work upon the various buildings of the Pan-American Exposition. The most advanced of the buildings is that to be devoted to machinery. The staff upon the exterior of this edifice is now nearly all in place, and the great structure is in the hands of the color artists.

Though a very large building, 500 by 250 feet, the four facades are so broken by architectural features that there is nothing of monotony or severity. Every one who has the good fortune to visit the grounds during this early stage of development undoubtedly applauds the happy results of both the architectural and color schemes.

In order that the reader may have a correct understanding let me first describe the molded work with which the exterior of the building is ornamented. By means of the very ingenious process of casting, the plastic is taken out of white plaster, into which liberal quantities of manila fiber have been mixed in order to make it tough and durable. The Exposition buildings are given the appearance of solidity and massiveness as well as the beauty of highly carved stone. But, since the material is not stone, the idea of adding color to the plastic is easily understood. How to apply the color so that it would heighten the beauty of the work has taxed the ingenuity of the most famous mural painter of the world, Mr. Charles Y. Turner of New York.

The very intricate character of the work and the vast amount of it in different designs rendered the work a tedious task. All four of the broad facades of the building have an arched effect. Every window is a deeply recessed arch, with wide sills and casings. Every entrance is composed of one or more high arches with massive pillars at the sides, and every entrance is a double arched plateau design. Every window is grained and finished with fidelity to the most aristocratic ideas of architects of the Spanish renaissance, from which the general architectural scheme of the Exposition is derived.

At the four corners of the great building are four towers, with open pavilions, 50 feet above the ground. Above the great arched entrances on

FLOWERS AT PAN-AMERICAN.

Charming Landscape Effects and Beautiful Floral Exhibits.

The Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo next summer will possess unusual charm for lovers of flowers and of beautiful landscape effects. Perhaps recognition of this by the members of the Society of American Florists have helped to hold their annual convention in Buffalo in 1901. Chicago was anxious to win the convention, but in view of the special attractions for its members which the Pan-American Exposition will possess it was decided to meet next year in the Pan-American.

The gathering will bring to Buffalo a large number of visitors from all families from all parts of the United States. The floral features of the Pan-American Exposition and its landscape effects will surpass anything seen before by visitors to expositions held in the United States. The laying out of the grounds was done with the view of providing for such attractions, and ample space was left for courts and

While there will be a charming scenery of this character all over the grounds, special effort will be made to embellish the southern portion, adjoining Delaware park, at the entrance to that part of the grounds where the main Exposition buildings are situated. On both sides of the splendid Triumphal arch, the great gateway to the principal pools called the Mirror Lakes, connecting with the Grand Canal, which encircles the grounds.
